Sex= the state of being male or female biologically speaking. You are male or female.

Gender= the behavioral, cultural, or psychological traits typically associated with one sex. “Being a man or a woman”

Which agent of socialization do you believe enforces gender roles the most?
How gender socialization happens

Yes, society does nudge us in a gender direction based on our sex.

Starts from day one with parents.

- Mothers usually UNCONSCIOUSLY reward females for being passive (calm) and dependent and reward males for being active and independent.

  Example: Girl rips head off of doll, parents worry/ correct the behavior. Boy rips head off of doll… “boys will be boys”

All of this creates your gender identity which is you sense of being male or female based on learned cultural values
Pink wasn’t always for girls…

Before Gatsby, a 1918 trade catalog for children's clothing recommended blue for girls. The reasoning at the time was that it's a "much more delicate and dainty tone," Finamore says. Pink was recommended for boys "because it's a stronger and more passionate color, and because it's actually derived from red."

How does the mass media reinforce societies expectations of gender???

Let’s look at some ads and discuss their gender bias.
The good wife's guide

- Have dinner ready. Plan ahead, even the night before, to have a delicious meal ready, on time for his return. This is a way of letting him know that you have been thinking about him and are concerned about his needs. Most men are hungry when they come home and the prospect of a good meal (especially his favourite dish) is part of the warm welcome needed.

- Prepare yourself. Take 15 minutes to rest so you'll be refreshed when he arrives. Touch up your make-up, put a ribbon in your hair and be fresh-looking. He has just been with a lot of work weary people!

- Be a little gay and a little more interesting for him. His boring day may need a lift and one of your duties is to provide it.

- Clear away the clutter. Make one last trip through the main part of the house just before your husband arrives.

- Gather up schoolbooks, toys, paper etc and then run a dustcloth over the tables.

- Over the cooler months of the year you should prepare and light a fire for him to unwind by. Your husband will feel he has reached a haven of rest and order, and it will give you a lift too. After all, catering for his comfort will provide you with immense personal satisfaction.

- Prepare the children. Take a few minutes to wash the children's hands and faces (if they are small), comb their hair and, if necessary, change their clothes. They are little treasures and he would like to see them playing the part. Minimise all noise. At the time of his arrival, eliminate all noise of the washer, dryer or vacuum. Try to encourage the children to be quiet.

- Be happy to see him.

- Greet him with a warm smile and show sincerity in your desire to please him.

- Listen to him. You may have a dozen important things to tell him, but the moment of his arrival is not the time. Let him talk first - remember, his topics of conversation are more important than yours.

- Make the evening his. Never complain if he comes home late or goes out to dinner, or other places of entertainment without you. Instead, try to understand his world of strain and pressure and his very real need to be at home and relax.

- Your goal: Try to make sure your home is a place of peace, order and tranquility where your husband can renew himself in body and spirit.

- Don't greet him with complaints and problems.

- Don't complain if he's late home for dinner or even if he stays out all night. Count this as minor compared to what he might have gone through that day.

- Make him comfortable. Have him lean back in a comfortable chair or have him lie down in the bedroom. Have a cool or warm drink ready for him.

- Arrange his pillow and offer to take off his shoes. Speak in a low, soothing and pleasant voice.

- Don't ask him questions about his actions or question his judgment or integrity. Remember, he is the master of the house and as such will always exercise his will with fairness and truthfulness. You have no right to question him.

- A good wife always knows her place.

- Try a little charm, wealth and fame. That’s hot.
- Necrophilia is a good dating strategy
- Strangers want you to make out with them while they sleep.
- Just lie, it’ll totally work
- mmmmmmmmmmmmmmm, Stockholm syndrome

Inconsistencies of Treatment

In many societies ageism is not an issue. Elderly people in many cultures are treated with great respect and honor.

- In agricultural societies, elderly males usually play important roles, such as the role of priest or elder.
- Among the Igbo people of Nigeria, the older person is assumed to be wise: this not only brings him respect, since he is consulted for his wisdom, it also provides him with a valued role in society.
- The Bantu elder is “the father of HIS people”
- In Samoa culture old age is “the best time of life”

So what do you believe changed people’s views on getting older?

Sociological Perspectives of Socialization
Functionalist Perspective: Social, Psychological and Economic Functions

- Socialization serves a number of social functions
  - Ensuring social order is main function

- With socialization, norms and values can be instilled within the child

Conflict Perspective: Exploitation and Abuse of Children

- Some aspects of socialization are harmful to children.
- An enormous power builds up on the parents who can thus be tempted to exploit and abuse children:
  - Child labor, slavery, child pornography and abuse.
- Children are viewed as their parents personal possession and are denied many rights that adults enjoy as members of society.
- Adults defend the physical punishment of children by saying “its for their own good.”
Symbolic interactionist perspective: developing self-image from interactions

Focuses on how children develop a self from interactions with parents and other people in their lives
